

CLIENT SERVICES

Public Integrity Counseling

In the wake of the federal government's decision to greatly reduce its enforcement of public corruption and civil rights laws, we help state and local governments fill the void. Our consulting services include training for state and local officials—including police departments and prosecutors' offices—on anti-corruption enforcement techniques; analysis of existing state and local laws, regulations, and programs to advise governments on how to strengthen them; high-quality, prompt, and cost-effective internal investigations, culminating in public or private reports, referrals to law enforcement, and/or proposals for reform; appointments to serve as special counsels; and litigation of any issues that arise parallel to these consulting services.

Criminal Defense

We ensure that our clients obtain a fair process and a zealous and effective defense at every stage of a criminal case—including witnesses placed under subpoena, organizations subjected to document demands, and individuals accused of a crime. We have managed complex federal investigations, overseen prosecutorial decision making, and supervised and conducted dozens of federal trials. Based on that extensive experience, we help clients understand the criminal process and provide them comprehensive representation and advocacy to protect their livelihood, reputation, and liberty.

Congressional Investigations

We help clients navigate every stage of a congressional investigation, from responding to a preliminary inquiry to producing records or providing testimony. Our combined experience—which includes work on both sides of a congressional investigation and prosecution of individuals who refused to comply with congressional investigations—gives us unmatched insight into how to handle congressional inquiries, how privilege claims operate in the legislative context, and how to advise and protect clients subject to congressional demands.

Internal Investigations

To surmount crisis and manage risk, decisionmakers—including organization heads, board members, legislators, and policymakers—need reliable facts and candid advice. Our internal investigations equip clients with both, swiftly and discreetly. Drawing on decades of collective experience in highly sensitive criminal probes of individuals, government agencies, and private entities, we can adapt to any challenge and help clients turn peril into opportunity. We are adept at navigating legal privileges, parallel inquiries, fiduciary duties, and intense public scrutiny, and our focus on integrity, accountability, and efficiency gives clients the credibility and confidence to take decisive action.

Litigation and Courtroom Advocacy

We are veteran litigators and trial attorneys prepared to manage every facet of criminal and civil litigation—ranging from arbitrations, mediations, and administrative proceedings to courtroom hearings and trials. Our experience leading jury trials in state and federal courts, handling legal briefing and oral argument at the trial and appellate levels, and conducting evidentiary and administrative hearings allow us to guide clients through all manner of litigation disputes. We deploy foresight, innovation, and fortitude to help clients devise successful affirmative and defensive litigation strategies, from complaint to verdict and beyond.
